AT THE PARAMOUNT
As the color, spirit, courage, and pathos of Victor Hugo's great historical beauty for which the United States Naval Academy stands is reproduced in "Annapolis Farewell," Paramount's authentic film document of life and romance at the famous school, which is coming Wednesday and Thursday at Paramount Theatre in Lynchburg three days Saturday.

The rigorous daily schedule, the arrival of plebes, whipping them into shape, the parade, the graduation and nodding into dreamland of the boys who enter Uncle Sam's sacred portals all constitute a stirring picturesque and important background to the main theme of this realistic photoplay.

Making up the cast we find Sir Guy Standing still remembering for his outstanding portrayal in "Raven of a Bengal Lancer", as a retired Naval Officer, Richard Cromwell as Tom Brown, as roommates and rivals toppling the windscreen, the clean cut youth of today; Rosalind Keith as the romantic interest of the film, revealing in the boys' affections, as just the kind of a girl a young middie would be expected to have.

For your entertainment the early part of next week, the Lynchburg Paramount presents a startling drama of today and forever, "Dante's Inferno" with Spencer Tracy, Claire Trevor, Henry B. Walthall and Alan Dinehart. Enthralled, you'll watch this spectacle of today's hell: torture the tempted, and the damned.

"Dante's Inferno" will play at the Paramount for two days only, next Monday and Tuesday.

FATHER Darkleafs Column

Wherein Ye Editor Gets a Personal Word

• • •

See where Herbert Marshall will get in a show in Lynchburg next week. Father Darkleaf might report that Herbert has a wooden leg and has never see him climbing steps in a picture.

• • •

Right now the topic may be of baseball or football, but next Sunday they will be raving about the Joe Louis—Max Baer prize fight in New York. Louis is a colored fighter and there's the rub. There have been lots of good colored fighters. There was Little Black Bill Richmond, who fought back in 1815. Even before him there was Daniel Mendoza, who is supposed to have had colored blood. Others were Tom Molineaux and Jeannette, Joe Gans and the more recent Jack Johnson, George Godfrey and Battling Siki and Tiger Flowers. Jack Blackburn, Sam Langford and Sam McVey were other Othellos of the ring.

• • •

Personally we'd rather see Joe Louis beat a regiment to go to the wars in Ethiopia than fight a white man.

• • •

This week's bright idea: Stop sending guns to Ethiopia and send them that black boys a carload of bright RAZORS.

• • •

Father Darkleaf got on the inventor with his excellency, the governor of Virginia, at the Marshall last Friday during the big Democratic convention. We had on delegate's badges, with our names emblazoned thereon, and noticing the governor's name was on his badge. So: "Well governor, if they had my name made down, no one would know who I was, but you are more fortunate, for it really doesn't matter whether you know it or not." and so on until I found myself on the tenth floor, whereas big stiked to disembark on the second. Such is her, worship.

AT THE PARAMOUNT

Bright spirited comedy. Lilting love songs, and gay romance make Ready Credit to Your Neighbor which plays at the Paramount Theatre, Lynchburg through Saturday, one big grand hour of entertainment, topped by a supporting cast of unusual ability. Joan Bennett furnishes the object of Cross's affections and countless hilarious situations are supplied by the piquant inanities of Mary Boland and Persian.

Be sure and prepare yourself for lots of rib-tickling laughter as Bing's newest laugh riot which provides the crooner with plenty of opportunity to display his fine voice as a song and master of farce. Besides Bing, Ready Credit to Your Neighbor will find the Paramount is introducing the South's premier organist, Jesse Crawford, the beautiful Paramount organ, Ina Della Deen Orr playing a solo which is progressive, as she has had years of experience both on the theatre and over the radio and is destined to win a place in the hearts of lovers of good music.

Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the Paramount brings another of the greater new show hits to the movie lovers of this vicinity. "Accent on Youth" is a delightfully amusing, charmingly sophisticated love story of a girl in love with a handsome bachelor twice her age. "Accent on Youth" boasts a cast of favorites including Sylvia Sidney, Herbert Marshall, Phillip Reed and Astrid Allwyn.

AT THE 1515

For your week old entertainment the 1515 Theatre in Lynchburg brings the people of this vicinity three big thrill hits on one program at the regular prices that are well within the means of everyone.

The first feature unit on this outstanding program which plays at the 1515 Friday and Saturday the management has been successful in obtaining the latest screen version taken from the story by America's greatest writer of out door drama, Zane Grey again scores and adds another hit to his long line of successes in "Wanderer of the Wasteland." This faithful screen version features Dean Jagger, Gail Patrick and Buster Crabbe nand promises unsurpassed scenes, thrills and out door action.

As the second hit the 1515 presents the 1rst episode of the thrilling new serial sensation, "Call of the Savage" with Noah Berry Jr. and Dorothy Short. Extra fun is furnished on this program by "Our Gang" in their new comedy success "Little Papa."

TIMES-VIRGINIAN

ESTABLISHED 1892 Appomattox, Va. THURSDAY SEPTEMBER 19, 1935 Sunbscription: $1.50 per year

Hospital Campaign

Amount Of Free Work Totals Up To $87-906.97 For 8 Year Period

Free work at the Southside Community hospital has averaged $11,000 a year since this institution was opened in November, 1927.

During the nearly eight years from November 7, 1927 to August 1, 1935 the total amount of free work done by the hospital has reached the staggering sum of $87,906.97. Part of this cost has been met by some of the boards of supervisors of the counties in the hospital's area. The counties of Amelia., Appomattox, Buckingham Charlotte Cumberland, Lunenburg, Nottaway Powhatan and Prince Edward are in the area.

The sum contributed by the boards of supervisors and the town of Farmville during the 8 years amounts to $18,843.65.

Despite the donations of the various civic bodies the expense of the hospital has averaged more than $2,000 a year above such donations.

Because the hospital has contnually lived from hand to mouth, and because the expense of free work has grown rapidly in the last few years, the board of directors of the hospital decided to conduct a campaign, from October 7 to November 7 of this year to raise $5,000 for operating expenses. It is thought that with this amount the hospital can get its budget tightened out and operate more efficiently from a financial point of view than is now possible.

Insect Cannibals Lower Crop Loss

Earworm Has Habit of Eating Its Fellows; Halts Greater Damage.

Supplied by the United States Department of Agriculture.—WNU Service.

The corn earworm's unfriendly habit of eating its fellows saves a great deal of corn that would be destroyed by these insect pests if they lived more amicably together. Out of several earworm larvae—sometimes as many as 30—crowded into the same ear of corn, only one may live to become an adult moth, according to recent studies by entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture. The sole survivor of the 30 does not make away with all the others. Perhaps it kills only one or two. Its victims, however, have accounted for one or two more, and so on. Corn earworm cannibalism is progressive.

Corn with long, tight-fitting husks is more conducive to cannibalism among earworms than corn with short, loose-fitting husks. The hungry larvae that emerge from eggs laid on corn silk outside the husk must work their way inside to the new silk and the kernels before their only passageway is restricted—as it is when the husk covers the whole ear and extends well beyond the tip—one frequently runs upon another. No larva feeding by itself goes out of its way to pick a fight. But when it meets a fellow feeder it immediately lunges for a soft vulnerable spot of that fellow-feeder, sinks in its powerful little jaws, and voraciously devours its victim, down to the hard head capsule. In close quarters, where there is no room for a counter attack, the larva that strikes first is almost certain to win.

Weeds spaces, the entomologists say, all these tiny larvae lack to complete the picture of furious combat is the ability to growl, snarl, or hiss.

Weeds Are an Obstacle to Better Grade of Hay

Weeds are one of the greatest obstacles in producing high grade hay in the opinion of W. H. Hosterman, hay specialist in the United States Department of Agriculture. He reports that farmers are planning to profit from a national hay shortage. A shortage that certainly cannot be overcome in less than two or three years—will make every effort to have the best hay from weeds.

To grade as U. S. No. 1 not more than 10 per cent of foreign material—which is usually made up of weeds—may be present in hay. For Nos. 2 and 3 the tolerance is 15 and 20 per cent, respectively, except for alfalfa where the allowance is 5, 10, and 15 per cent. Alfalfa, says Mr. Hosterman, usually is "very clean," which accounts for the difference in grade requirements.

Weeds are particularly bothersome in the annual hays such as soy beans, Sudan grass, and lespedeza.

The most bothersome weed reported in soy bean hay is the prickly sprgg nettle (bull nettle). With the slightest dampness—even the breath of animals eating it—an offensive odor arises. Seed of the nettle also is objectionable when soy beans are harvested as a seed crop.

PUBLIC CONFIDENCE CONTINUES TO GAIN

Bankers Report Nation-Wide Improvemen: in Attitude Toward Bankr—Educational Campaigns Play a Part

NEW YORK.—Ninety-six per cent of over 300 reporting clearinghouses throughout the United States find concrete evidence of favorable turns in public opinion regarding banks, it is shown in the results of a survey made by "Banking," the monthly publication of the American Bankers Association. City and country districts in every state are represented, it is pointed out.

"The outstanding conclusion is that there has been a genuine nation-wide improvement in the last few months in the attitude of the public toward its banking institutions," the publication says. Statistical evidence on which the bankers base their conclusions which warrant this statement is as follows:

The Evidence

"How do bankers know there has been an improvement in the public attitude? They have certain statistical evidence. They have seen their deposits increase substantially in nearly all the cases reported, and tremendously in some cases. Many letters tell of increase of 10p to 50c per cent from the low point of the panic.

"For another thing, they know that betwer people are using safe deposit boxes as a repository for their savings, and that, in many instances at least, special savings are declining.

"However, many express the view that they could throw out the statistical evidence and still realize that the public is in a better mood where the banks are concerned than before. The best evidence offered on this point, numerous bankers say, is to be found in the acceptance by the public of the newly instituted service charges and the reduced deposit interest rates."

A Summary of the Returns

The statement presents the following summary of the survey:

"We find on breaking up the general classifications of replies to the poll that the 65 per cent of those answering with an unqualified 'yes' represent only a partial measure of the optimistic feeling. Adding the favorable replies included in other groups, (i. e. 'yes' with qualifications, 'no change,' and 'mixed') we find that the vote shows a definitely healthy situation in 84 per cent of the localities reporting; at least some signs of improvement in another 12 per cent; a continuance of unfavorable conditions in 3 per cent, and a change for the worse in another 3 per cent. It is not too much to say that this is substantially 96 per cent favorable."

Reasons for Changed Public Opinion

As to reasons for the changes in public opinion regarding banks reported by the clearinghouses "more than one organization has a word to say about the American Bankers Association advertising and educational material," the magazine says.

It mentions in addition the benefits of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in the emergency, improvement in the general business situation, the weeding out of weak banks and the banking moratorium.

"The response to the survey can be put down as encouraging and informative," the magazine concludes. "It holds out the definite hope that with a continuance of a cooperative, educational attitude on the part of the bankers the rest of the journey back to normal may well be completed in the not too distant future."

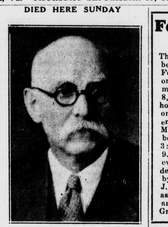
DIED HERE SUNDAY



W. M. Hancock, prominent local business man died suddenly at his home here Sunday.

Was Prominently Connected With Local Business Enterprises

Funeral services for the late W. M. Hancock, who died here suddenly at his home Sunday morning, were conducted at Liberty Baptist church at three o'clock. The services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. W. M. Thompson, assisted by the Reverends W. S. Cunningham, G. A. Chocklett and R. E. Redding. Interment was at Liberty Cemetery, with a Masonic burial.

"How Firm A Foundation," his favorite hymn, was sung by the choir at the church services.

Mr. Hancock was born at Red House, in Charlotte county, June 6, 1864, a son of Matilda Harvey and Martin B. Hancock. He spent most of his useful life in Appomattox, where he had many prominent business connections. He was the owner of the Appomattox Ice Plant, president of the Appomattox Hardware Co., Inc., and a director in the Farmers National Bank. He was connected with the town water system. He was a Master Mason and for many years had been a deacon in the Liberty Baptist church. The large attendance at the funeral and the many beautiful flowers attested to the high esteem in which he was held, and his sudde death was the cause for great saddness here. He had served several terms as a member of the town council, and in the last election gave up his place to his son.

He is survived by his widow, Matilda LeGrand Hancock, and by five daughters: Mrs. W. W. Scott; Misses Carolyn, Corrie, and Annie Hancock and Mrs. W. F. Woolfolk; one son, Ned Hancock, and two grandchildren, Nancy Stuart Scott and Billy Woolfolk; three brothers: D. Witt and Charles, of Bluefield, W. Va., and Alex V. Hancock, of Pulaski.

Active pallbearers were: B. G. Anderson, A. R. Harwood, Charles T. Moon, F. L. Murphy, S. W. Sears and Don Moses.

Card of Thanks

It is impossible for us to thank personally our many friends who have been so kind to us in our recent sorrow, so we take this opportunity to express our sincerent thanks and appreciation to them all.

Killed In Explosion

When a boiler exploded at the Evorias Land and Lumber company's sawmill near Stonewall Monday, Edward Hendricks, 30, was instantly killed. Funeral services were held Wednesday.

Lloyd Cyrus was also hurt and was taken to the Memorial hospital for treatment

He received a broken right leg and bad cuts and burns.

It was Hendricks first day of work at the mill. He resider at Spring Mill and is survived by his widow.

Those who inspected the scene described the explosion as one of the most terrific they has even seen. Parts of the boiler were hurled for a hundred yards. The county extends its deepest sympathy to the family of Mr. Hendricks.

Supervisor

Miss Mary Savage of Surry county, has been named supervisor for the various schools in Appomattox county this year. She comes here highly recommended and is expected to be a great help to the system.

W.C.T.U. Bi-County Meeting

Mrs. W. L. Ould is Re-elected As President Of Group

The annual bi-county convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Appomattox and Campbell counties met at White's church, Campbell county on September 12.

An all day prigram was prepared and a large audience enjoyed both sessions.

A good deal of business was conducted. The educational feature, scientific temperance instruction in the schools of Appomattox and Campbell counties, is the greatest work of the coming year.

Mrs. L. C. Smart, of Lynchburg, spoke to the teachers at Appomattox that morning on the work in the schools, presenting the syllabus. She spoke on the program at the convention in the afternoon, and also to the Campbell county teachers on the 17th.

The convention closed with "Bless the tie that binds" and the Scripture. Benediction was by Rev. J. W. Marsh. Mrs. W. L. Ould, of Appomattox is president of the bi-county union.

The following officers were re-elected:

President, Mrs. W. L. Ould; vice-president, Mrs. E. G. Peterson; recording secretary, Mrs. W. D. Monroe; treasurer, Mrs. E. G. Nowlin.

Bi-county directors are: child welfare, Mrs. Mary Perry; Christien eitizenship, Mrs. G. O. Gordon; flower mission and relief, Mrs. W. F. Gills; medal contest, Mrs. Annie Fore; medical temperance, Mrs. Mary Dupuy; publicity Miss Lucy Rice; social morality, Mrs. F. H.
